

Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

Incredible how fast the time passes! We have only just incorporated vario-optics and now we passed already the first financial year. We reached a lot during this year.

Our capabilities in the field of technology, manufacturing and characterization of electro-optical circuit boards have been further improved. These efforts will result in the installation of new equipment in our clean-room and laboratory during the next few weeks.

But the most important thing have been the already considerable number of customer projects. Most of them were aiming on the development and manufacturing of prototypes. All projects were finalized to the satisfaction of the customer and many of them will be continued during the next year.

Currently, we observe an interesting development in the market. So far we were forced to approach customers actively. But more and more companies are asking us for solutions based on electro-optical circuit boards without initiative from our side. From "Technology push" to "Technology pull" - hopefully, this trend is continuing. Anyhow, the vario-optics team is very excited about it and is looking very optimistic towards the next year!

All this wouldn't be possible without the support and the great confidence YOU put in vario-optics! We would like to thank you for all this!

In this sense, we wish you and your families Merry Christmas and a happy new year!

Your vario-optics team!
